Mr. Ho Kyong Park is a Partner at Jipyong and a distinguished expert in administrative law. His practice focuses on disputes arising from construction and real estate, with particular expertise in development projects such as redevelopment, reconstruction, and urban development.

Since 2011, Mr. Park has handled a wide array of disputes related to urban renewal projects governed by the Act on the Improvement of Urban Areas and Residential Environments, providing comprehensive legal services to numerous construction companies and urban renewal associations. In this capacity, he has managed complex matters requiring close working relationships with municipal and provincial governments, including those of Seoul, Incheon, and Daegu. His contributions were recognized with a Commendation for Private Experts by the Seoul Metropolitan Government. Mr. Park's high level of expertise in development projects is further demonstrated by his successful handling of disputes concerning urban development and urban planning facility projects. Additionally, he has represented clients in a wide range of litigation in the construction and real estate sectors, including claims for construction costs, defects, loans, and cost-sharing contributions.

Given that real estate development projects are inextricably linked with various administrative permits, licenses, and levies, Mr. Park delivers integrated legal solutions rooted in his profound knowledge of administrative law. He completed doctoral coursework at Seoul National University School of Law and lectured on administrative litigation practice at both Seoul National University School of Law and Konkuk University Law School. He is also a frequent lecturer on real estate development for professional training programs, including those offered by the Seoul Metropolitan Government, the Korea Economic Daily, and the Korea Institute of Construction Technology Education.

Leveraging this expertise, Mr. Park has also advised foreign governments and entities on the development of their legal frameworks. He contributed to the drafting of legislation concerning urban renewal in Vietnam, urban development in Cambodia, and rental housing development in Mongolia. His legislative advisory work also extends to matters concerning North Korea, including research on advancing the Inter-Korean Cooperation Fund Act for community building and enhancing the legal framework for the Act on Special Support for the Kaesong Industrial District.

As local community engagement has become a critical factor in real estate development, related environmental issues have grown in significance. As a member of Jipyong's Climate & Energy Center, Mr. Park has represented major corporations, including LG Chem, SeAH Besteel Corp., and Hyundai Steel, in numerous environmental litigation cases. He has also collaborated with POSCO on initiatives aimed at achieving carbon neutrality in the steel industry.
